

OCTA212R : Developmental Disabilities in Occupational Therapy

This course includes Occupational Therapy theories and treatments for individuals with a variety of developmental disabilities. Utilizing the standard therapeutic process, the student will apply theory and technique in screening and evaluation, treatment planning, service provision, documentation, and program evaluation. This course builds upon principles of theory and practice presented and applied in AHLT 112R, PSYC 101R, PSYC 114R, OCTA 110R, OCTA 125R. The various roles and responsibilities of the COTA in the work sites for the person with a developmental disability will be examined.

Credits 2

Lab Hours 3

Lecture Hours 1

Prerequisites

PSYC 101R, AHLT 112R, AHLT 114R, OCTA 110R, OCTA 125R (or corequisite)